

A service program of the Pennsylvania Municipal League

Labor contract negotiations. Interpretation and enforcement of state and federal laws and regulations. Controlling employee benefit costs. Today's local government officials face increasingly complex issues in managing their workforces.

PELRAS was created to address these issues, providing its membership with extensive training, access to specialized legal counsel, and frequent updates on current topics and developments in employee relations process and municipal law. Our goal: To share workable solutions on how to avoid lawsuits, mitigate labor/management tensions, and improve service delivery, ensuring that municipalities of any size effectively and proactively manage their employees.

To guide these efforts, PELRAS has partnered with the law firm of Campbell Durrant, P.C. They offer the expertise of a nationally recognized firm with firsthand knowledge of municipal challenges and needs.

Member Benefits

- Comprehensive Training
The PELRAS Annual Spring Training Conference is considered the premier training forum for public sector employees in the Commonwealth. Over 20 labor relations specialists address key issues via panel discussions, in-depth seminars, case examples, role-playing and Q&A sessions, supplemented with a comprehensive reference manual, access to PELRAS attorneys, and networking opportunities with municipal administrators throughout the state.
Continuing Education Credits
PELRAS training is accredited by The League's Elected Officials' Leadership Training Program, the APMM Professional Development Program, the Local Government Risk Management Certificate Program, and the Continuing Legal Education Board of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.
Wage and Benefits Survey
This fully interactive online survey allows municipalities to compare wage and benefit information on a statewide basis to provide a valuable tool in collective bargaining negotiations and human resource management. The customized database of wage and benefit information can be sorted by various demographics, including population, county, and municipal classification.

- Quick Call Consultation Service
Members may contact PELRAS attorneys free of charge for immediate assistance in non-complex matters that do not require additional research or consultation, and can be addressed in a single limited phone call.
Legal Representation and Counseling at Reduced Rates
Various services are available to all members through the PELRAS partnering law firm, including: review and analysis of labor contracts, collective bargaining negotiations, advice on labor and employment law issues, employee benefits litigation, and advice on labor and employment arbitrations.

Key labor issues are addressed through this bimonthly newsletter. Each edition features current topics and developments in employee relations and municipal law, with content supplied by the program's law firms.
